Uncharted and Unprecedented Economic Territory

The coronavirus (COVID-19) outbreak has already brought considerable human suffering and major economic disruption. The Australian economy is reeling from the impact and it's expected to escalate in intensity in the coming months. As cases of COVID-19 continue to increase the Australian Government and Reserve Bank of Australia are working to soften the economic blow.

Contractions in Chinese trade are being felt globally, reflecting the rising role China plays in global supply chains, travel and commodity markets. As one of the world's most China-reliant economies the shockwaves of COVID-19 have already begun to hit with the Australian dollar plunging to its lowest level since October 2002. Depending on the severity of COVID-19 globally, economic modeling is forecasting a decline in Australia's GDP of between 2% and 7.9% in the first year alone.

Stock markets are continuing to set unwanted records with the ASX200 dropping over 30% since February including the largest single-day fall on record with the benchmark index closing 9.7% down on 16 March 2020. Companies listed on the ASX continue to withdraw their profit forecast with revised downgrades either issued or expected to be issued as the impact of COVID-19 begins to hit the bottom line.

The Government continues to act decisively to support the Australian economy and, on Monday 30 March 2020, the Prime Minister Scott Morrison announced a third economic stimulus package valued at $130bn with the key feature being a 'JobKeeper' payment to businesses in a bid to keep Australians employed. Considering the first two rounds of stimulus and the Reserve Bank's own measures to boost financial markets and ease restrictions on credit, the total value of assistance packages announced to date is worth a combined $320bn.

Recently, the Reserve Bank of Australia announced a $105bn boost for the financial system and lowered the official interest rate to 0.25% which it expects will remain unchanged until Australia's unemployment rate drops back toward 4.5% and inflation is between 2-3%. This is part of a coordinated effort by the world's central banks to stimulate global markets with the United States Federal Reserve, the Bank of England and the Reserve Bank of New Zealand all recently setting their official cash rate at 0.25%.

The Details

Support for Businesses – JobKeeper Payment

JobKeeper	Under the JobKeeper Payment the Government is providing a wage subsidy to support eligible businesses, which may include sole traders. Following registration by the eligible business, the Government will provide $1,500 per fortnight per eligible employee for a maximum of 6 months.
Eligibility	Employers (including non-for-profits) will be eligible for the subsidy if: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• their business has a turnover of less than $1 billion and their turnover has reduced by more than 30% relative to a comparable period a year ago (of at least a month); or• their business has a turnover of $1 billion or more and their turnover will be reduced by more than 50% relative to a comparable period a year ago (of at least a month); and• the business is not subject to the Major Bank Levy. Eligible Employees are those who: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• were employed by the relevant employer at 1 March 2020; and• are currently employed by the employer (including those who have been stood down or re-hired); and• are full time, part-time, or long term casuals (a casual employee employed on a regular basis for 12 months as at 1 March); and• are at least 16 years of age; and• are an Australian citizen, hold a permanent visa, are a Protected Special Category Visa Holder, a non-protected Special Category Visa Holder who has been residing continually in Australia for 10 years or more, or a Special Category (Subclass 444) Visa Holder; and• are not in receipt of a JobKeeper Payment from another employer. While it appears that businesses without employees can potentially qualify for JobKeeper Payments, it is not clear at this stage what conditions will need to be satisfied.
How is it calculated?	The ATO will administer this program and will make the $1,500 payments based on payroll information. The payments will be made monthly in arrears, so it is essential that you ensure your business and your employees continually meet the eligibility criteria. The business will continue to receive the payments for eligible employees while they are eligible for the payments. While the program is expected to run for 6 months, payments will stop if the employee is no longer employed by the relevant employer.
How is it provided?	Employers must elect to participate in the scheme. They will need to make an application to the Australian Taxation Office (ATO) and provide supporting information demonstrating a downturn in their business. In addition, employers must report the number of eligible employees employed by the business on a monthly basis. To access the JobKeeper subsidy, you should talk to your accountant or adviser to assist you with the registration process and calculations.
